why you'll love it...

A one-mile round trip universally accessible trail will take you to the bluffs of Lake Michigan.

A visit in spring will allow you to be surrounded by trilliums along Chestnut and Dry Hill.

The Arcadia Marsh is known as one of the top birding observation areas in the state.

TIME

With five loop trails, you can spend half a day here and never walk the same path twice.

INTENSITY LEVEL

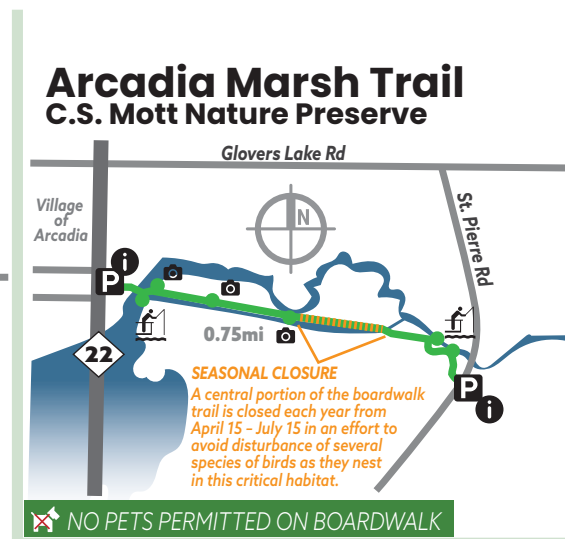

A trail for all skill levels with some areas of difficulty as you make your way through loose sand on the dunes.

TRAIL TIPS

Baldy Trail: Easily the most popular segment with its scenic overlook viewing Lake Michigan, this 0.5 mile (1 mile round-trip) universally accessible trail is a must see and is a great trail for all skill levels.

Dry Hill Trail: A widely known trail for its wonderful mountain biking terrain (especially during the spring wildflower season), this trail is typically accessed from the St. Pierre Trail using the Chestnut Loop as a warm-up before making your way out to the Dry Hill Trail.
